

Thesis summary

This research purpose is to make use of drafting and course is implemented , probe into the social skill situation of the pupil of Macao and coach the result in the form of coaching in the group of the group of course of coaching.

This research regards a primary school as and studies the place , the research object is 12 higher primary school students. By way of case study , implement eight themes to design , adopt the training procedures of eight, carry on coaching in the group course. When course is implemented, observation group activity situation, divide the materials into three kinds: First, student's part, include: Job paper , questionnaire , interview. Second , the researcher's observations and records. Third, teacher's interview. The researcher puts all materials in order into a characters draft , analyse objectively.

Obtain the following main result after analysing:

First, the social group coaches the preliminary idea that course can accord with the researcher , draft course and carry on course of coaching of the group to implement. Second, when coach course and implement, the going on of detailed record teaching activity, analysing the bit of the course, sum up its main point implemented, the result shows that the social group coaches the approval that course got teachers and students. Students' interpersonal behavior is aware to some extent and improving. Third, the social group coaches the expectation that course can accord with the group member . Most students change to some extent in the course of implementing, some students have not joined and coached making obvious progress before the group , other group members also present few social behaviors of falling back. The due attitude that the group member studies to and gets along with people during coaching course, and apply to in life.

Propose the following suggestion in the gains of studying course on the conclusion and researcher of this research:

First, course is appropriate with the course content in length.

Second, each activity length one is difficult to be too long and too short.

Third, activity content and form should do the proper design in conformity with the participant's background.

Fourth, in order to improve the result of coaching, the group coaches and coaches individually and is used simultaneously.

Fifth, recommend the home education actively.

Sixth, improve the education system of the school.