

THESIS OF FACULTY OF LAW UNIVERSITY OF MACAU

DOCTRINE OF EXHAUSTION OF RIGHTS AND PARALLEL IMPORTS: LEGAL ISSUES AND CHALLENGES IN CHINA

SUPERVISOR: MURUGA PERUMAL RAMASWAMY

JIA HANG HANG

STUDENT NUMBER: MA361503

Table of Content:

I. Introduction

II. Principle of right exhaustion

2.1 Understanding

2.2 Origins and development

2.3 Purpose

2.4 Chapter summary

III. Parallel imports in general

3.1 Definition

3.2 Causes

3.3 Complication of parallel imports issue

3.4 Chapter summary

IV. Legal theories relating to parallel imports and doctrine of exhaustion of rights

4.1 Right exhaustion and parallel imports

4.2 Legal theories --- for and against parallel imports

4.3 Understanding the theoretical controversy

4.4 International treaties and parallel imports

4.5 Chapter summary

V. Trademark and parallel imports

5.1 An overview of parallel imports of trademarked goods

5.1.1 Characteristics of parallel imports in trademarks

5.1.2 Disputes in parallel imports of trademarked goods

5.1.3 Function of trademark

5.2 Current situation in China

5.2.1 Legislation

5.2.2 LUX case in China

5.2.3 Analysis on LUX case

5.3 The legal practices in different jurisdictions

5.3.1 Practices in European Union

5.3.2 Practices in the United States

5.3.3 Practices in Japan

5.3.4 Conclusion of legal practices in different jurisdictions

VI. Patent and parallel imports

6.1 Characteristics of parallel imports in patent

6.1.1 Territorial nature

6.1.2 Imports right--- could import right be a defense against parallel imports?

6.2 Current situation in China

6.2.1 Chinese patent law

6.2.1.1 Article 11 of patent law

6.2.1.2 Article 63 (1) of patent law

6.2.1.3 Article 12 of patent law

6.2.2 Practical issue of parallel imports of patented goods

6.3 The legal practices in different jurisdictions

6.3.1 Practices in Japan

6.3.2 Practices in the United States

6.3.3 Conclusion of legal practices in different jurisdictions

VII. Copyright and parallel imports

7.1 Special causes of parallel imports of copyrighted goods

7.1.1 Automatic protection

7.1.2 National treatment

7.2 Present situation in China

7.3 Practices in different jurisdictions

7.3.1 Practices in the United States

7.3.2 Practices in the UK

7.3.3 Conclusion of legal practices in different jurisdictions

VIII. Conclusion