

11/20/07
284
11/10

UNIVERSITY OF MACAU
FACULTY OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Long-term Performance of IPOs in China

Lin Shi Hua

M-A4-5736-1

Thesis presented to the

Faculty of Business Administration

University of Macau

In partial fulfillment for granting the MBA Degree

(Finance)

2007

Contents

1. Introduction	5
2. China's SOEs Reform and IPO Market.....	10
3. The Institutional settings of IPOs in China	12
3.1 IPO procedure	12
3.2 IPO sponsorship system.....	14
3.3 Listing requirements, pricing and share allocation.....	16
4. Review on Related Literature and Development of Hypotheses.....	22
4.1 Investor sentiment and post-IPO performance	22
4.2 Underwriter reputation and post-IPO performance	24
4.3 Non-tradable share ownership and post-IPO performance.....	26
4.4 Management ownership and post-IPO performance.....	27
4.5 Board size and post-IPO performance	28
5. Theoretical explanation for long-run underperformance	30
5.1 Bad model problem and benchmark chosen	30
5.2 Investors' overvaluation of the IPOs.....	33
5.3 Agency problems	34
6. Data and Construction of Variables.....	37
6.1 Construction of key explanatory variables	37
6.2 Stock performance measurement.....	39
6.3 Operating performance measurement.....	41
7. Summary Statistics and Univariate Analysis.....	42
7.1 Summary statistics	42
7.2 Pair-wise correlations among key explanatory variables.....	43
8. Post-IPO Stock and Operating Performance	47
8.1 Summary statistics on post-IPO performance.....	47
8.2 Post-IPO performance adjusted by Fama-French 3-factor model	48
8.3 Regression analysis for post-IPO stock performance	51
8.4 Regression analysis for post-IPO operating performance	54
9. Post-SEO performance	57
9.1 Institution setting in China.....	57
9.2 Variables definition.....	57
9.3 Regression analysis for post-SEO stock and operating performance	59
10. Conclusion.....	61
11. Reference.....	63